*Accredited Mediation Training
11th - 15th September 2017 - Liverpool*

A Late Summer's Revolution in Dispute Resolution?

In 1966 Robert F. Kennedy delivered a speech that included a passage: there is a Chinese curse which says "May you live in interesting times." He could hardly have contemplated the rise of President Trump or the rise and fall of Leicester City - but for business people, lawyers and professionals these are interesting times.

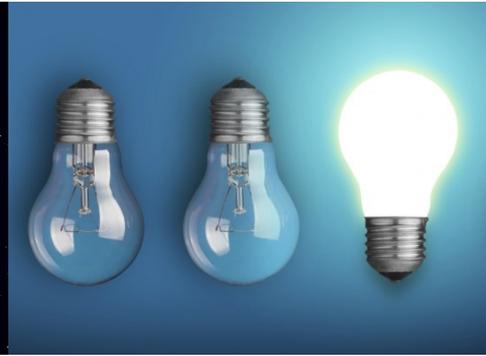

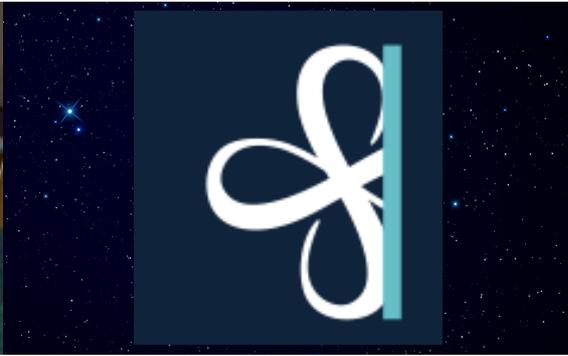

To that end, leading Liverpool solicitor and mediator Joe Mulroney has called professionals to a mediation training course in the Albert Dock on 11th to 15th September 2017. With 40 hours of training time and endorsements from all professional bodies the training is remarkable and often described as career and life-changing.

Newly-crowned Personal Injury Mediator of the Year, Jonathan Dingle FRSA will lead the course and teach delegates how to become a mediator, use mediation, and apply facilitation in all areas of personal and professional practice. He will draw on the increasing use of mediation in the NHS and government both to iron out complaints, to resolve claims, and to make Consultant and other staff work more effectively. He will explain the opportunities for mediators and the strengths and weaknesses of mediation.

The Accredited Mediator Training will be held at The Holiday Inn Express, Albert Dock, Liverpool from 0900 to 1815 daily for the five days from 11th to 15th September 2017 .

To book a place please call 0151 363 3972 or email training@mediatelegal.co.uk

Aided by a team of expert tutors with more than 1,500 mediations between them – making it the most experienced faculty in Europe – Jonathan, who is also Chair of the mediation Charity The Society of Mediators, will ensure that every delegate learns enough to achieve the professional accreditation recognised by the Society, and by the Civil Mediation Council.

The real force of the week, though, is in discussing and understanding the Revolution in resolving claims that is coming. By April 2018, in many legal and professional disciplines there will be a whole new game in town and those who understand its business and requirements will be well placed to work in it and to thrive. The week will be a collaboration between all the professions involved and the results are also superb feedback, from judges to law students and from managers and professionals – at every level.

Robert Kennedy never had the chance to do what history perhaps intended for him. Castro perhaps over-achieved. But even in the sometime arcane field of medication, mediation, or law, there is a time to be interesting. We hope to see as many as possible on the course* in September to fulfil the proverbial prediction.

The fee, for the world-class training delivered by the Charity on a not for profit basis is only £1,200 plus VAT. It includes materials, lunch, and a prosecco networking reception. Any profit will be donated to the Charity. The course carries 25 hours of CPD points. A limited number of places are available for what is the leading course in the United Kingdom. Those who pass the course will be invited to complete their professional qualifications through observerships within the Mediate legal network and, once they have completed ten mediations, will be eligible to join this high profile panel. For those who wish, a remarkable opportunity awaits.
